Hurricane Season and Evacuation Policy

Hurricane season is approaching. The Fritz Kennel would like to notify everyone about our hurricane policies to ensure your pet's safety as well as our employees.

If a hurricane is expected to make landfall within the vicinity of Houston/ Galveston area, The Fritz Kennel employees and all customers' dogs will need to be evacuated at least two – three days prior the landfall. This will require each pet owner or emergency contact person to pick up their pet(s) from our facility, so please inform your emergency contact person of this prior to dropping off.

We feel that it is highly important that our customers understand that. The Fritz Kennel is not a suitable emergency shelter for pets or humans in case of a hurricane event. Our facility is not resistant to hurricane winds and weather. As a result, complete evacuation is the only reasonable policy in case of a significant hurricane event.

Everybody understands that a hurricane event creates tremendous anxiety, for pets and humans alike. It's never easy and many decisions are very difficult. Therefore, we must be prepared and act quickly with well-designed policies and procedures. We hope that our customers understand that the purpose of this policy is for the ultimate safety for your pets. Once again please inform your emergency contact of their responsibility for your pet each time they board at The Fritz Kennel.

Please consider getting your pet a collar with your name and contact information on it. We can never tell what damage may come and every precaution helps.

Thank you for your continued support of The Fritz.
